

WHITTAKER MAN ROBBED $2,000

AGED JEWELER STRUCK DOWN BY TWO MEN WHILE IN HIS STORE SUNDAY.

One of the most brutal robberies in this vicinity in years took place Sunday at about 11 a. m. when two bandits entered the store of Orval F. Hawkes, aged 70 years, and knocked him down with a black-jack, bound and gagged him and then robbed him of $2,000 worth of money, jewelry and war savings stamps. The store of the old man is located in an isolated place in the village of Whittaker. He lives in some rooms in the same building that his jewelry store is located, and Sunday he was making preparations to go away and was putting some of his diamonds and jewelry in the safe when the robbers entered. The first thing they did was to strike him down. Then they took rope and bound his hands and feet. They gagged him and tied a shirt around his mouth and covered him with a blanket. Then they hurriedly filled their pockets with the loot and drove away in a Hudson Super Six with a red running gear.

About half an hour later Hawkes, who had been knocked unconscious with the beating given him, came to and managed to free his feet so he could crawl to a window and get out and call for aid.

Chief of Police Connors was the state police, the sheriff's office his characteristic activity soon had the state police, the sheriff's office and the police in surrounding cities working on the job. After that he took up the trail of the bandits and was able to track them towards Detroit for several miles. He took the rope and the bloody shirt with him used in binding Hawkes.

Monday Chief Connors and Deputy Sheriff Dick Elliott were working on the case. Sheriff Ambrose C. Pack and Deputy Sheriff Harry Smith were in Ypsilanti also Monday and questioned a young man from the vicinity of Whittaker, but he was later released as it was learned that he knew nothing of the affair.

Feeling in the village and vicinity is very bitter against the bandit brutes who almost killed an old man, who, according to residents, was harmless and in no way offensive and could have been robbed without using brutal force.

Chief of Police John F. Connors and Deputy Sheriff Dick Elliott arrested Sam Stanich, of Ecorse, Monday evening, who they say is one of the bandits that beat up and robbed Orval F. Hawkes at Whittaker on Sunday. They also arrested C. Lynbenovich, of 105 West End avenue, Detroit, who a few days ago was in Whittaker and purchased some of the jewelry at the Hawkes store. Stanich was taken to Whittaker Tuesday and Hawkes positively identified him as one of the bandits who beat him up and robbed him. He also identified a watch found on Stanich when arrested, and Chief Connors stated that Stanich tried to "ditch" the watch before he put the handcuffs on him, and had already broken the chain. Chief Connors when at Whittaker Sunday secured some clues about a certain young man that had been around there last summer, and by going to oil stations and other places was able by clever detective work to run down Stanich. Lynbenovich is being held by the officers as a stool, he having purchased a lot of jewelry when arrested.

The car used by the holdups was found in the back yard where Stanich was arrested and is said to belong to a woman by the name of Veda Sikic, living in Ecorse.

Stanich, when asked what his occupation was, answered "Boot-legger," and was listed so at the county jail.

Lynbenovich has a jewelry store in Detroit, located at West End avenue, where some of the stolen jewelry was found.

Mr. Hawkes was brought to Ypsilanti and taken to the office of Dr. Kellogg, who dressed his wounds, and it is thought at this time that he will soon be able to be out.

GET INTO COURT OVER CONTRACT

The trial of F. M. Greenstreet against Leon and Nellie Curry took place Monday before Judge Stadtmiller.

Greenstreet sued the Curreys for violating a contract given by them to Greenstreet to sell their house. Mrs. Curry testified that she knew what she was signing but thought she had a right to change her mind. Greenstreet had the sale of the place only one night and day with the consent of Mrs. Curry. He advertised, however, and took several people there to see the place. He claims damages for time lost and money spent in advertising. Decision in the matter was reserved until Thursday.

WILL BUILD A NEW LUTHERAN CHURCH

At a congregational meeting held last Thursday evening at the Lutheran church it was decided to begin building operations for a new church edifice next April, the site to be decided on at a meeting to be held Nov. 10. The congregation has a choice of lots between the one that is now occupied by the building and one on the River street boulevard at the corner of North street, which was donated to the congregation a few years ago by John E. Engel. A building fund has been in progress for some time and with the amount already subscribed they feel that they are able to go ahead with the project.

FIFTY HEAD CHOICE REGISTERED ANIMALS

The committee in charge of the fourth annual sale by the Washington County Holstein-Friesian Cattle Breeders' club reports to The Record that they will have 50 head of choice registered animals catalogued. The sale will be held at Scotney Bros. farm, one mile north of Peninsular Paper company, Nov. 15 at 12:30 p. m. Charles Thompson will be the auctioneer and R. Austin Backus, of New York, its sales manager. Most of the local breeders are consigning several head each. There will also be consignments from Manchester, Belleville, Chelsea, Ann Arbor and Salem.

KIWANIS' WEDNESDAY SESSION.

Rev. C. S. Burns of the Baptist church offered a resolution at the meeting Wednesday of the Kiwanis club, which was amended by Prof. Mark S. Jefferson of the Normal college asking that the present disarmament conference take steps and measures looking forward to the time when all the world will disarm. The resolution as amended was passed. T. C. Rice, of Detroit, gave an interesting talk on "Happiness." "Many of us," he said, "get in the habit of thinking that riches will bring us happiness. All rich men are not happy. The only thing in life that will bring true happiness is service. That is the foundation on which the Kiwanis club is built."

HIT BY AUTO TRUCK DIES FROM INJURY

Friday night about 8 o'clock as Neil Johnson and Andrew Adams, two U. of M. students, were walking from Ypsilanti to Ann Arbor they were run down by a truck driven by Wm. Button, of Ypsilanti, and Johnson was so severely injured that he died Saturday noon.

At the time of the accident there was a heavy fog and it was difficult to see any distance ahead of the car. Mr. Button turned out to avoid a car and did not see Johnson in the fog. Harry Coffman was riding with Button and they brought the injured man to the Beyer hospital, where it was found that he had sustained a broken leg and suffered a concussion of the brain and other injuries. His home was in Highland Park, where the body of the unfortunate man was shipped.

STAG PARTY.

CHAPTER I.

Cousin Percy's Little Joke.

I suppose every one has had the experience of waking in the middle of the night to find everything perfectly still and quiet and normal, and yet with the impression persisting that there had been a tremendous crash of some sort just before the waking senses were alive enough to realize it. It was some such razing jolt as this that was given me on the morning when I was called in, with the other members of the family, to listen to the reading of my grandfather's will.

But, first, however, to give some idea of the conditions precedent, as a lawyer would say. My father—good, easy-going, comfortable Dad!—never owned what Grandfather Dudley, pursuing his thin lips and snapping the words out, called "the money sense." As an architect high in his profession and with fine artistic feeling for the beautiful in buildings, he earned a liberal income—and spent it; or so much of it that there was barely enough left after his death to provide for my mother and sister, and to keep me going, as you might say, in an exceedingly modest manner. Without work, I mean. I may as well confess, at once, that I had never acquired the work habit. I was always "going to," but it was so fatally easy to keep on postponing the chilling plunge. I suppose I had been ready on at least half a dozen occasions to take a dive into some pool with a salary attached; but always some good friend would bob up to say, "Oh, come on, Stannie, old man; we're lacking just one more to make up the bunch. Don't be a clam. Time enough to settle down when you have to," and then it would be all off.

Besides, you see, there was always Grandfather Jasper in the background. He had money—ashings of it, so we all believed; and it had been a family understanding for years that he intended splitting the bulk of it, fifty-fifty, between my cousin Percy and me. Before we go any farther, let me set it down that Cousin Percy was—and is—all the seventeen different kinds of things that I am not, and never wished to be; smooth, neat, well-groomed, a "grind" in college and a "perfect dear" with the girls, ambitious as the very devil, and measuring his friends by the amount of "pull" they might be able to exert in his behalf; there you have him from the crown of his well-brushed little head to his patent-leather pumps.

"You're a fright, Stannie," he would say, in his carefully polished diplomatic manner—he had a billet in the Department of State at Washington, and was in training for the legation service abroad—"you are a perfect fright. Three whole years out of college, and you haven't done a single, solitary useful thing yet. When are you going to begin? And, incidentally, how long are you going to keep Lisette waiting?"

Oh, Lord!—right there was another knot in the tangle—Lisette. We had agreed to marry Lisette and I—some six months or so in advance of Grandfather Jasper's death, and we were both perfectly well assured, and had assured each other a dozen times, that my income from Dad's estate wasn't more than half big enough to marry on. You see, it was this way: Lisette was one of a family of four girls in a mighty expensive household, and there wasn't anything to lean on on that side of the fence. Though, of course, we never discussed it brutally in so many words, we were waiting for that fifty-fifty look-in at the will which family tradition declared had already been drawn up, signed, sealed, witnessed and put away in cold storage; otherwise in the safe-keeping of Grandfather Jasper's family lawyer.

All of which may serve to bring us back to that nightmare effect registered at the start. When the Dudley will was taken out of the icebox and read to the assembled members of the family, there were at least two shocking surprises. Jasper hadn't been any where near as rich as we had all been thinking he was; that his modest manner of living had been, perhaps, as much a matter of necessity as of choice. Bad investments—of which the family had never heard so much as a whisper—had cut his fortune down to something less than half a million, all told. That was shock Number One; and shock Number Two was strictly personal to me: Grandfather Jasper had left me his love and best wishes, and had willed the money and property—all of it, mind you—to Cousin Percy, giving as his reason that he thought Percy would make better use of it.

Of course, I had everybody's sympathy and condolence—even Percy's, for that matter. My mother wept; and, as I recall it, Lisette managed to compass a tear or so when I told her what had happened; or rather what had so ignominiously failed to happen.

"Whatever will you do?" she faltered. "I suppose you will really have to go to work now, won't you, Stannie?"

"Perish the thought!" I told her; then I gave the good reasons why there was no hope for us in that direction. "A fat chance I'd have to earn any real money. I can navigate a yacht—a little—drive a motor, ride a polo pony, and play a fair hand at bridge and the other great American game. I think these are the sum total of my shining accomplishments. You needn't return the ring," I grinned, seeing that she was looking at it rather regretfully. "You can wear it on some other finger, you know."

"Yes; I suppose I could do that," she agreed; and I'm blest if she didn't shift it to a finger of the other hand right there and then!

It was less than a week after this little fade-out scene with Lisette that Percy's letter came. This is what it said:

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH READY

NOW STANDS AS A FITTING MONUMENT TO YPSILANTI AND MEMBERS OF THE CHURCH.

Sunday the First Methodist church held its formal reopening with an appropriate program. During the balance of the week appropriate services will be held to celebrate the remodeling of this church building. Workmen have been busy during the summer months, with the result that Ypsilanti now has one of the finest and best equipped Methodist church buildings in the state in cities the size of Ypsilanti or much larger. Altogether something over $20,000 has been put on this building.

As the building now stands it has a beautiful entrance and lobby on the north that cost in the neighborhood of $6,000. A finely equipped kitchen, with all modern improvements, has been installed and a new office for the pastor. The interior of the church is all newly decorated and rewired and a complete new lighting system installed.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Carson, of Sheridan avenue, announce the birth of a daughter Sunday, Oct. 30.

PATRIOTIC DRIVE TUESDAY, NOV. 15

Tuesday, Nov. 15, the Patriotic Service league will make its one day drive for $10,000. Ward chairmen have been appointed and everything is being shaped to raise Ypsilanti's quota in one day. Every dollar given by our citizens in this worthy cause goes to help to finance the different organizations that help to make a city a clean place to live.

Get your mind all set on the amount you wish to subscribe and help those who call on you to put this drive over in one day. Ypsilanti has always come across in matters of this kind and will do so this year. Watch for further particulars in next week's papers.

The present officers of the league are: A. E. Lewis, president; Mrs. D. L. Quirk, Jr., secretary, and John E. MacAllister, treasurer. D. L. Quirk, Jr., is chairman of the campaign.

LEGION AUXILIARY HOLD GOOD MEETING

The American Legion Auxiliary met Friday evening at the G. A. R. hall. Robert Hemphill was present and gave an intensely interesting talk on his trip to the battlefields of France and also told of the American cemeteries there. Mr. Hemphill had pictures and maps that were of interest and answered many questions asked by his hearers.

The business meeting following was opened by devotionals by the chaplain, Mrs. Mary Matthews. After the routine business the various committees for the fair to be held Dec. 2 and 3 at the armory were announced and some plans discussed.

The Legion Auxiliary chairman of the committees are Mrs. Herbert Hinds, fancy work; Mrs. Frank Lidke, candy booth; Miss Mary Bouell, parcel post; Mrs. Charles Emens, kitchen booth; Mrs. E. C. SUDDEN DEATH OF A. E. LEAS

DROPS DEAD AT HIS HOME
TUESDAY MORNING—HAD BEEN AILING.

Ypsilanti was shocked Tuesday morning when the news of A. E. Leas' death was announced from his home at 506 West Cross street. For some time back it had been generally known that Mr. Leas was in poor health, but few, if any, dreamed that his conditions were so serious. Tuesday morning he was down town and was in the plumbing shop of M. C. Hawkins, where he transacted some business. He was also at the Wolverine Forged Drill factory, of which is was vice-president. Returning home he was taken sick to the stomach and went into the bathroom, where he fell to the floor and soon expired.

Mr. Leas came to Ypsilanti about 12 years ago and engaged in the lively business under the firm name of Groves & Leas on South Washington street. About 1912 he purchased the shoe business of a Mr. Schultz, which business he conducted up to August, 1920, when he sold out to Minnis & Cotton. He then associated himself with the Wolverine Forged Drill company, manufacturers of high-speed drills, on River street.

Short services were held at the home at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, and Thursday morning the remains will be taken to Angola, Ind., his old home, where funeral services will be held Friday afternoon. He leaves a wife, a daughter, mother and sister to mourn his loss. At the time of his death he was 58 years old, and leaves a host of friends in Ypsilanti, who extend their sympathies to the bereaved family.

SEVERAL DIPHTHERIA CASES REPORTED

Saturday morning Dr. John Wessinger, health officer of Ann Arbor, closed the St. Thomas school in that city for an indefinite period. This action was taken on the part of the health officer due to the fact that eight cases of diphtheria had broken out in that school, four of the cases proving fatal.

Ypsilanti so far has escaped an epidemic of the dread disease, and while there has been some apprehension felt here, due to the death of Mrs. Foster, who died in Ypsilanti last week, Health Officer Pillsbury reports only four cases in the city and has taken every precaution against the spread of the disease here.

Her personal acquaintance with practically all of the customers in the city was a valuable asset to herself and her company, and a host of friends in and out of the company will always wish her well.

Mr. Theodore S. Weber, of Ann Arbor, who has been employed by the Edison company for eight years, has been appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mrs. Chapin.

EMPLOYED ART OF FLATTERY

How Disraeli Succeeded in Securing the Full Confidence of His Royal Mistress, Victoria.

It was after the untimely death of her husband at the age of 42 that Queen Victoria became the victim of a settled melancholy. For 20 years after that event she continued to wear mourning, took little or no interest in the social life of her subjects, and made a slave of herself in her correspondence and in her interviews with her ministers on public questions and the details of government.

It was not until Disraeli became premier that the queen emerged from the shadow of bereavement. He fascinated her by his rhetoric and poetic style of address. Gladstone, she said, used to speak to her as if she was a public meeting, but Disraeli remembered that she was a lonely woman with a hungry heart. He fed this hunger in letters that were almost affectionate in tone. He called her Gloriana and Titania, queen of the fairies, and in a thousand similes ministered to her self-esteem. He waved the magic wand of flattery and Titania began to enjoy life once more.

So the queen to her old age became popular with her subjects and revealed those mellow graces, those milder attributes, that made her beloved and revered at home and abroad. —Detroit News.

PHRASE IN USE BY ROMANS

Writers of Ancient Empire First Referred to the Game of "Ducks and Drakes."

"Ducks and drakes," an expression used commonly in connection with a person who is heedless in money or business matters, has gained wide circulation since it was first used among the Romans.

Minucius Felix and other ancient writers allude to a game of scaling oyster shells or stones on the water. If the stone emerged once it was said to be a "duck."

England adopted the game and gave the phrase its present-day meaning. Just when it was first applied is not known. But it is well used in Henry Peacham's book, "The Worth of a Penny," published in London in 1647.

"I remember in Queen Elizabeth's time a wealthy citizen of London left his son a mighty estate in money, who, imagining he should never be able to spend it, would usually make ducks and drakes in the Thames river, with shilling pieces as boys are wont to do with titles and oyster shells. And in the end he grew to such extreme want that he was fain to beg or borrow a sixpence, having many times no more shoes than feet and sometimes having more feet than shoes."

Chant of the Motor Boat.

My motor boat, 'tis of thee, short road to poverty—of thee I chant. I blew a pile of dough on you three years ago; now you refuse to go—or won't or can't. Through channel and by oceanside you were my joy and pride, a happy day. I loved the gaudy hue, the nice white paint anew; but you're down and out for true, in every way. To thee, old rattlebox, came many jumps and knocks; for thee I grieve. No shelter from a storm; frayed are thy seats and worn; the whooping cough affects the "chug" I do believe. The perfume swells the breeze, and only causes one to sneeze, as we pass by. I paid for thee a price, 'twould buy a mansion twice; now everybody's yelling "Ice"—I wonder why. The motor has the grip, the spark plug has the pip, and who is thine. I, too, have suffered chills, fatigue and kindred ills; endeavoring to pay my bills, since thou were mine. Gone is my bankroll now, no more 'twould choke a cow, as once before. Yet, if I had the mon', so help me, Jack—amen, I'd buy a boat again and speed some more.—Bayliss Y. C. Log-book.

Laws Against Profanity.

Did you know that according to the law of England swearing is an offense for which you may be convicted by a justice of the peace according to a scale of penalties? And the higher up you are in the social scale the higher the fine imposed. A day laborer, common soldier or seaman forfeits one shilling for every oath; every other person under the degree of gentleman two shillings and above the degree of gentleman five shillings. For a second offense it is double the sum, for a third, triple, etc. At any time a constable may arrest a profane swearer and take him before a justice. On one occasion a man lost his temper entirely and swore the same oath twenty times before a justice. The latter counted them and when the man had finally stopped, fined him two shillings for each repetition. There is a similar law in Scotland.

Flowers and Seasons.

The relation of the colors of flowers to the seasons has attracted the attention of a Canadian professor, who finds that of 589 flowering plants in the provinces of Quebec and Ontario, about one-third have white flowers. Yellow flowers come next, and comprise about one-quarter of the total. Purples and blues form about one-ninth or tenth. White flowers are commonest in April and June, whereas yellow are frequent in July, August and September. One can not help noticing that the spring flowers have delicate colors as a rule, whites or pale pinks, yellows and blues, whereas the autumn flowers have much stronger shades of yellow, blue and purple.

ROTARIANS HEAR GOOD TALK.

The Monday noon luncheons of the Rotary club are always a treat to the members; not so much perhaps from the fact that George is on the job with the cats and Rose and her able staff of cooks get just the right turn to things, but there is always something coming after one has satisfied the inner man. Last Monday it was Dr. Henry Suzzalo, president of the University of Washington, who gave a talk on "Liberalism." In his talk he made a plea for broader and higher sense of fair-mindedness in the policies of the nation. It was a talk that carried conviction in the minds of those present that liberalism when applied as the speaker would apply it would solve many of the perplexing problems of the day.

FROM a silver-spoon and soft-mattress existence, Stanford Broughton suddenly is confronted with the alternative of looking for a job or, another kind of quest, try and locate a mysterious legacy left him by an eccentric grandfather.

He does not know the character of the property, but the grandfather's directions say that it is somewhere between the 105th and 110th degrees of longitude west from Greenwich, and the 35th and 40th degrees north latitude.

When he finds it he will be able to identify it by the presence of a girl with brown hair and blue eyes, a small mole on her left shoulder, a piebald horse and a dog with a split face—half black and half white. He is game and he starts to look for the combination. The troubles he has in locating it and the adventures and dangers through which he passes in securing possession of the property, also the romantic incidents in which the girl is a figure, make up this very fascinating narrative.

It is Mr. Lynde's habit to tell stories like this, and there are readers in multitudes who would be sorry to have him depart from the custom.

THE GIRL, A HORSE AND A DOG.

"Dear Stannie:

"I know just about how you felt last week when you heard Grandfather Jasper's will read, and it isn't going to make you feel any better now when I tell you that I knew of its provisions more than a year ago. When the will was drawn, grandfather showed it to me, and gave me a sealed envelope, which I was to open after his death. That envelope, as I knew at the time, contained, among other things, a codicil to the will. By its provisions you are to receive a legacy under certain conditions which were to be revealed to you at such time as I might think best.

"Your portion of Grandfather Jasper's property was worth, at its latest valuation, something like $440,000. It lies in a perfectly safe repository, situated between the 105th and 110th degrees of longitude west from Greenwich, and the 35th and 40th degrees north latitude. When you find it, you will be able to identify it by the presence of a girl with brown hair and blue eyes and small mole on her left shoulder, a piebald horse which the girl rides, and a dog with a split face—half black and half white. You will be more than likely to find the three together; and if you make the acquaintance of the girl, you'll be on the trail of your legacy.

"So there you are, Stannie, old boy: there's your fortune. All you've got to do is to go to work and find it. Perhaps by that time you will have acquired the working habit—which is what Grandfather Jasper hoped might prove to be the case.

"Wishing you great joy in your search, I am,

"Your affectionate cousin,
"PERCY."

Naturally, I had a quiet little laugh over this screed of Percy's, taking it for a joke; a poor joke and in rather bad taste, I thought. In that mood I handed the letter to Lisette for her to read. She didn't laugh, but she did look a bit scornful and put about, if you know what I mean.

"I don't suppose the blue-eyed girl would appeal to you," she said, "though the horse and the dog might. When do you start?"

We discovered that Meridian 105 west of Greenwich split the state of Colorado just beyond Denver, Colorado Springs and Pueblo, and the hunting-ground plotted out for me took in three-fourths of the remainder of the state, a slice of Utah, a good bit bigger slice of New Mexico, with a bite out of the northeastern corner of Arizona, just for good measure.

"Me for the wild and woolly!" I brayed. "Don't you see me rigged out in a nice, hairy pair of 'shaps' and riding hell-bent-for-leather—I believe that's the phrase—over the snow-capped peaks or the boundless prairies, as the case may be? But just imagine Percy the immaculate pulling a bone-head joke like this!"

"You are taking it for a joke?" she questioned.

"Sure I am; and it's a rather rotten one at that, I should say—considering the source."

"Then you won't go to look for the blue-eyed girl with nut-brown hair and the cunning little mole? Think of what you may be missing!"

For just one crazy minute I had a hunch, or a premonition, or whatever you like to call it, that the letter might not be a joke. Grandfather Jasper had always been a bit eccentric—a rich man's privilege and a rich old man's incontestable right. What if he had actually done this thing to me—a thing scarcely less devastating than cutting me off without a penny? On the spur of the moment I said:

"If I should go, would you wait for me, Lisette?"

She took her time about answering—a good and sufficient plenty of it.

"I think perhaps I'd better not change the ring back, Stannie," she said, sort of wistfully. "If there is any money and you should happen to find it, you would probably fling it all away before you could get back to Boston. Besides, there is the blue-eyed girl; if she should bring you a fortune, you'd have to marry her, wouldn't you? You are big and strong, and—well—er—nice in a good many ways, Stannie, and much too good-looking for your own good; but when you marry—if you do marry—you'd better be sure that the girl has money enough to buy her own hats. I haven't enough, as you know."

"I know only too well that the love-in-a-cottage idea has never appealed to you," I said, with the regretful stop pulled all the way out in deference to the sentimental decencies.

"Not in the least, Stannie, dear; not in the slightest least."

This appeared to be the end of our rather lukewarm love-dream, and to be really honest and aboveboard about it, I am obliged to confess that it didn't break as many bones for me as I suppose it should have. Anyway, a half-hour or so after I had said goodbye to Lisette I met Jack Downing; and when he asked me if I didn't want to go with him and a bunch of the fellows for a little spin down the coast of Maine in his motor cruiser, I fell for the invitation so suddenly that he hadn't a ghost of a chance to back out, if he had wanted to.

So, a few hours beyond that touching little scene at "The Rockerie," you may figure me, if you please, spinning the wheel of one of the nattiest little boats on the North shore, with a fresh nor'easter blowing and the sea getting up to give me the time of my young life to hold the Guinevere to her course, nor' nor'east, half a point east, as we lifted the Shoals on our port bow.

In such jolly good company as we had aboard the stout ship Guinevere, three full days elapsed before a thought of Percy or his joke ever entered my head again; and it's a ten-to-one shot that I wouldn't have thought of him, or it, during the remainder of the cruise if we hadn't been obliged to tie up at Rockland for motor repairs. This, as I recall it, was on the fourth day, and it was a dog that made me remember; a mongrel cur that followed the motor repairman down to the wharf; a most disreputable looking mongrel, at that, but—by Jove! he had the magic markings! Half of his face, measuring from a line drawn straight down over the tip of his nose, was black, and the other half was a dingy, dirty white.

So then I did a little rapid figuring on train schedules. If Percy had left Washington as I knew he was planning to, my diplomatic cousin should have been, at that figuring moment, just about due in San Francisco. That being the case, or the likelihood, I toddled up to the telegraph office and sent a message, addressing it in care of the captain of whatever might be the next steamer due to sail for ports in China. All I said was: "Your letter was as funny as an hour in a dentist's chair. Bon voyage to you."

Night found us still tied to the Rockland wharf; and just as we were getting up from dinner in the yacht's saloon, here came a boy with a telegram. The wire was from Percy, and it said:

"Don't be a complete fool. It was no joke at all. Ask my lawyer."

Even then, I didn't go off at half-cock, though I have often been called an impulsive jackass. The thing was still too ridiculous to bite very hard. But farther along in the evening, when I got to thinking it over, and more especially when it was shoved in upon me that I really did owe it to Lisette not to turn down even the tenth part of a chance to provide her with the means of buying her future hats, the die was cast, as the play-writers say. I made some sort of a foolish excuse to Jack Downing and the other fellows, caught a night train for Boston, stopped off at the home station long enough to pack a couple of cribs and Stops the sale of cigarets to minors!

AN ALL STAR CAST IN "CARNIVAL" FILM

The cast of "Carnival," the impressive international screen spectacle, produced in its original locales by Harley Knoles, and released by United Artists, is "all star" in every sense of the word. This wonderful picture will be the feature at the Martha Washington theatre Thursday and Friday, Nov. 10 and 11.

First, there is Matheson Lang, who plays the principal role, that of him in the role of "Simonetta," the Silvio Steno, prominent Italian tragedian, around whose picturesque character the dramatic story of "Carnival" is built.

Mr. Lang starred in the original presentation of "Carnival" on the legitimate stage. He headed, recently, his own production, "The Wandering Jew," at the New Theatre, London, England, which was one of the biggest successes of a decade. He is regarded as one of the greatest Shakespearean actors of the day, his interpretations of classic roles of "Hamlet" and "Shylock" having placed him in the class with Sir Henry Irving and Beerbohn Tree.

Hilda Bailey, who plays opposite with Sir Henry Irving and Beerbohn Tree.

also created the part in the original state presentation. She, too, is one of the big favorites in London in the legitimate drama.

The versatile Ivor Novello, as "Count Andrea Scipione," is famous among other things for having written the great ballad made popular in the late war, "Keep the Home Fires Burning." He is said to have the most classic profile in England, and is as famous as a musician and singer as he is as an actor.

Clifford Gray as "Lelio," the brother of poor little "Simonetta," gives a clever portrayal of the sycophantic brother, too lazy to work, but always well dressed and living on his sister's popularity. Mr. Gray has appeared in many pictures in this country as well as in England and has been seen in many important parts in Broadway productions.

The Duchess D'Anso as "Baroness Ottavia," "Silvio's" sister, is one of the first society women in England to appear on the screen.

She has more than one title and is a first cousin of Alfonso XIII, the present king of Spain. Not only is she a very beautiful woman, but she is also a splendid actress.

"Twinkles" Hunter, a clever child actress, widely popular on the British stage, plays the part of a boy, "Nino," the son of "Silvio." In the picture she wears black bobbed hair, which is called for by the character she portrays, but underneath the wig she has a wealth of natural golden curls.

Bright, simple and unspoiled, her winsome, childish grace and remarkable artistic talents make "Twinkles" worthy of a featured place even in the most notable company, and her work in "Carnival" will add much to her laurels.

NORMALS DEFEATED BY DETROIT JUNIORS

A 40-yard field goal kicked by Humphrey in the second quarter gave the Detroit team a three-point margin, which they succeeded in keeping throughout the game.

Junior college received the kickoff and started down the field as though for a touchdown, making two first downs. The Ypsilanti outfit held the Detroit team, compelling them to punt. The first quarter passed scoreless, with Junior college playing in Ypsi territory. In the second quarter Detroit was credited with three points and held a slight advantage over the 11 from Ypsilanti.

In the second half things changed in favor of the teachers. Ypsilanti had the ball on Detroit's one-yard line on one occasion and on the five-yard line on another. Junior college looked dangerous when MacKay pulled down a forward pass and ran 50 yards before he was downed. The juniors completed two other long passes, while Ypsilanti passes were a failure. Detroit missed a field goal in the third quarter by only a few inches. Rockwell failed to kick on one try for goal, and a second try was blocked by Richards, the Detroit left end.

On the offense Rockwell, Short, Dover and Humphrey did well. On defense Short, Erickson and Iler showed up well.

The Detroit team was well aware that they were up against real opposition, and it was only a miracle that they were not beaten by two touchdowns.

Five Detroit men were injured, two of which will be out of the game for the remainder of the season.

Junior College—Richards, left end; M. Seager, left tackle; Heym, left guard; Iler, center; C. Seager, right guard; Grove, right tackle; Breslin, right end; Sweeney, quarterback; Humphrey, left half; Cunningham, right half; Diver, fullback. Ypsilanti—Williamson, left end; Miller, left tackle; Erickson, left guard; Groves, center; Hanahan, right guard; Pray, right tackle; Dickie, right end; Rockwell, quarterback; Short, left half; Clark, right half; Williams, fullback.

Goal from drop kick—Humphrey. Referee—Lawton (U. of M.). Umpire—Van Tassel (U. of M.). Head line-man—Branigan (Franklin). Time of quarters—12-15. Substitutes—Cooney for Miller, MacKay for Grove, Lightbody for Cunningham, Grant for C. Seager, Allen for Dover, York for Breslin, Monihan for Lightbody, Becklin for M. Seager, M. Seager for Becklin, Grant for York, Cunningham for Monihan, Scery for Clark, Van Winkle for Scery, Bankhurst for Hanahan, Scott for M. Seager.

DODGE BROTHERS IMPROVED SEDAN

Disc wheels, cord tires, the latest custom windows and straight sweeping body lines are some of the features of Dodge Brothers improved sedan, which is now attracting much attention at the salesrooms of Joseph Thompson, Dodge Brothers dealer here.

In this unusually attractive car Dodge Brothers seem to have considered the motorist's every desire in design and in comfort features. Cleanly chiseled body lines, which flow squarely backward from the cowl, strike the observer with their simple beauty. The windows are square-cut in design and further enhance the straight, graceful silhouette of the body. Considerably lower, the whole ensemble in its outward appearance immediately impresses one with its dignity and harmony of design.

The disc wheels are done in black enamel with cream stripe and hide from view the springs and other underneath parts. The disc wheels may be removed with facility, and are easily cleaned. The brilliant lustre of the sedan's exterior finish is familiar to all owners of Dodge Brothers motor cars.

In the interior appointments the sedan leaves little to be desired. Delicately striped mohair velvet is used in upholstering the wide, commodious rear seat. In front is a deep, wide, solid seat with rounded sides, also trimmed in the striped material. The four doors, which permit easy entrance and exit from any part of the sedan, are upholstered with plain gray mohair velvet in a soft fawn gray. Combined with the heavily nickeled handles by which the windows are easily raised or lowered, this adds a richness of tone which can hardly be adequately described.

The windows in the doors and body are garnished with natural black walnut and are of polished plate glass. The body of the car is equipped with Yale locks, affording additional protection against theft and insuring the safekeeping of bundles and other articles when shopping. Handy side pockets, arm rests and windshield cleaner are other conveniences of the improved Dodge Brothers sedan.

Other notable refinements are weather strips inside the doors, as an extra protection in unpleasant weather, anti-rattles on the windows and a body heater connected with the exhaust.

WING-BLOSSEY

The daughter of Miss Jean Blosssey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Blosssey, who live on a farm near Belleville, and James Wing occurred Thursday, Oct. 27, at their apartments on Twelfth street, in the presence of 20 relatives. They were attended by Miss Eva Beslow, of Detroit, and Arthur Blosssey, brother of the bride. The groom is a son of Mrs. Lawson Wing of Pittsfield township. Both are well known here and their many friends extend congratulations.

ARE YOU ONE OF THESE MEN?

(1) The man who has been looking vainly for those subtle elements of distinction in design and weave not obtainable heretofore in ready-made clothes? (2) The man who has been fussing and fuming at futile tailors, and then more than half dissatisfied at their product and price? (3) The man who has swung hopefully first to a new tailor and then to the average higher priced ready-made, displeased with both, so constantly changing?

If so, a word of cheer for you! Never Near East relief was shipped out last Thursday, Oct. 27. It contained 210 barrels. Another one will be sent out this week.

California is starting a farm bureau membership campaign this fall on a $10 monthly basis. Pennsylvania, Mississippi and South Carolina are the only states not having state farm bureaus.

The Iowa State Farm Bureau federation will start a drive to increase their membership to 150,000. Ohio Farm Bureau members total 100,000 on the $10 yearly membership basis.

The traffic department of the Michigan State Farm Bureau has been active in seeing that the freight rates on potato shipments are reduced so that Michigan growers can compete with growers of other states.

The seed department of the Michigan State Farm Bureau is receiving quantities of June clover. Co-ops are sending in large quantities for storage and cleaning. The department handling charge has been reduced this year so that the selling commission is 75 cents per bushel. Cleaning first run is 35 cents, second run 20 cents. Two runs are necessary in order to put the seed in first-class shape. If the seed has to be run through the Buckhorn machine the total cleaning charge is $1.05 a bushel.

The seed department is planning a special campaign for the disposal of Huba clover seed. It is an-icipated the price will be around $1 per pound.

The sheep breeders of America are planning to have the "truth in fabric" bill brought before congress. If this bill passes it will not only be a death blow to shoddy but a great help to the producers of sheep.

The State Farm Bureau purchasing department is able to furnish different grades of coal in carload lots at reasonable prices. They also have a good line of dairy feed, cotton seed and oil meal, bran and middlings. Members should get in touch with their local co-ops for prices.

Last week 100,000 pounds of short wool was disposed of by the Michigan Farm Bureau wool department. According to the present rate of sales and the manufacture of suitings and woolen goods the 1921 pool should be completed in early winter.

The State Farm Bureau seed department has obtained a large quantity of Grimm alfalfa seed through an agreement with the Idaho Grimm Growers' association. This seed is guaranteed absolutely as to region where grown, purity and germination.

The seed department is also having special demand for certified seed potatoes from Ohio and Pennsylvania.

The last regular board meeting of the Michigan Elevator Exchange was held Oct. 26. During the last six months the exchange has grown from 75 to 97 elevators. It has been assured a powerful credit by the banks and obtained the position of recognized standing in the grain growers.

The National Livestock association reports a program is being prepared and plans will be ready for submission to the different states at an early date. The plans will include some methods for farmer controlled sale service at terminal markets. The livestock shipping association will be an important unit in the organization.

Due to the effect of the State Farm Bureau traffic department, Michigan livestock shippers do not have to pay the extra 2,000 pounds minimum weight which has gone with the placing of an over-length 40 foot 6 inch car. This will save Michigan livestock shippers hundreds of dollars in freight.

Michigan State Farm Bureau is active in backing the Michigan Traffic league's effort to secure an adjustment in freight rates for Michigan.

The organization of boys' and girls' club in Washtenaw county will be one of the important farm bureau activities during this fall and early winter. Clubs will be organized for sewing, handicraft and hot lunch. There is excellent co-operation among the rural teachers, parents and county school commissioner with the boys' and girls' club agent.

During the last two weeks County Agent Osler held 12 poultry culling demonstrations, culling 1,800 chickens. About 20 to 30 per cent are usually culled out as slackers.

There is an increased interest in virgin wool fabric and bed blankets manufactured for the Michigan State Farm Bureau from Michigan wool.

The township farm bureau meetings are being held in the different townships of the county. Farm bureau members will give suggestions as to the kind of work that ought to be promoted during the coming year.

The county agent plans to be in the farm bureau office Saturdays and Mondays to take care of requests of farmers who wish to come in on this day.

Several samples of soil were received last week for testing for lime requirements and there seems to be an increased interest in the use of alfalfa for the coming spring.

RUTHLESS WORK OF HUNTERS

Lovers of Wild Life Aroused Over the Wholesale Slaughter of Large Antelope Herd.

Indignation has been aroused among those interested in the conservation of wild animals, over the slaughter by hunters of at least half the antelope in a large herd that makes its home in the open country northwest of Swift Current, Saskatchewan.

The herd lived unmolested for years and at its maximum numbered 300 animals. Hunters began to make clandestine raids on the herd last fall and kept up their depredations during the winter. At the opening of spring not more than 150 antelope were left.

Prong-horn antelope, once rivals of the bison in number on the plains of North America, have been almost exterminated. This is one of the few wild herds remaining on the continent.
When the Hudson's Bay company was the sovereign power on the prairies the land which is now rapidly selling to farm settlers swarmed with antelope. Now only a few hundreds are left of the hosts.

The antelope of the United States have shared the fate of those of Canada. Except for a few fugitive bands in desert wastes all the wild antelope have disappeared. The greatest herd left on the continent is in Yellowstone park under government protection.
Small herds also are flourishing in government parks in Montana and Oklahoma. Antelope are prolific and multiply rapidly under favorable conditions.

The Canadian government has been notified of the decimation of the Swift Current herd by hunters and asked to take immediate steps to save the antelope from extermination.

INSIST ON CLOSED WINDOWS

Antipathy of Europeans to Anything Like Fresh Air Strikes Americans as Astonishing.

The most difficult thing for an American traveling in Europe, outside of England, is to have a window opened in the dining room of a hotel or on a train. I saw an aged French baron at Mentone enter the dining room of a hotel with two valets and a tame waiter who was engaged specially to keep out the slightest draught.

It is pretty warm in the south of France in May and the sun was striking on the glass sides of the dining room, but the baron felt a chill. The waiter went to each window and plugged up imaginary crevices with serviettes and a mallet, but still his patron called out at intervals: "Il y a un courant d'air." The two valets at his side fed him with the choicest tidbits from the table, but he was not satisfied. Just before I left the energetic waiter found a keyhole which had not been used for a quarter of a century and plugged it up.

When I was at the Krupp factory in Essen in May, the chief engineer took me from one building to another in a fine limousine car belonging to one of the directors. It was a very hot day and I suggested that we might have a window opened. The chief engineer tried them all without success, and then spoke to the chauffeur. He said they had never been opened since the car came from the factory. The director had only had it two years, he added.—New York Times.

Testing Values of Wood.

Nine Brazilian woods, tested at the forest products laboratory, at Madison, Wis., to determine their value for furniture, have been found to have the following characteristics: cabreu-va, resistance to saw similar to American larch, no stain needed; cedro, resistance to saw similar to Spanish cedar, finish similar to Spanish cedar; embaya, resistance to saw similar to birch, with dark stain would resemble walnut; lpe, resistance to saw similar to greenheart, no stain needed; Jac-caranda, resistance to saw similar to walnut; jatuba, resistance to saw similar to American elm, could be substituted for mahogany unstained; jequetiba, resistance to saw similar to rock elm, could be stained to imitate mahogany; marfim, resistance to saw similar to greenheart, requires color; peroba, resistance to saw similar to walnut, might be used unstained in place of rosewood.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Misunderstood the Doctor.

Lawrence, age ten, had been slightly ailing for a few days, but not ill enough to affect his appetite seriously.

In his mother's absence, the grand mother had been carefully dieting him, much to his annoyance. Finally, in desperation, Lawrence appealed to the family physician for a list of foods he might safely eat. The physician named a long list of light foods, and Lawrence's joy was unbounded. However, the fates were against him and a "horrible conspiracy" was revealed at the next meal, when he learned that the doctor meant that not all of the list, but only a few articles from the list were to be eaten at one meal. He had anticipated a meal consisting of each and everything the doctor had named.

Ice Cream for China.

Thousands of gallons of ice cream are being shipped every month from Vancouver to China, the frozen dainty being forwarded in specially constructed containers holding about 500 gallons each. This fact was brought out in the course of an investigation to discover whether the prohibition era had any effect on the sale of ice cream and soft drinks.

GO BACK TO CENTRAL STANDARD TIME.

Ann Arbor, Chelsea and Dexter went back to Central Standard time last Sunday night at midnight. So far Ypsilanti has not made the change. The matter was brought up at the last council meeting but nothing was done. A great number of our citizens prefer to go with Detroit on the time question and until Detroit changes back the chances are that the time will not change here.

THE GIRL, A HORSE AND A DOG.

(Continued from page 6, section 1) to tell my mornor and sister good-by, and the thing was—oh, no; not done—nothing like that. It was only just begun.

CHAPTER II.

A Needle in a Haystack.

Since my happy hunting-ground began in the middle of Colorado, I took a ticket to Denver by way of Chicago and Omaha. As I recall it now, it was after the train had passed North Platte that I first became sensibly conscious, as you might say, of the fact that the man in the opposite section of the sleeping-car had a little Pullman table set up in front of him, and was studying maps—and blue-prints. He was a rather efficient-looking fellow of maybe thirty-two or three, with dark hair and eyes, and what Lisette would have called a determined nose, and he sported a beard and mustaches, nut-brown as to color, and neatly trimmed. Farther along we met in the smoking room, at a time when the stuffy little den had no other occupants. Mr. Opposite Section's only cigar turned out to have a broken wrapper, so I naturally tendered my own pocket-case. That served to break the ice and we talked, dribbling along from one commonplace to another until finally Brown-beard said:

"You don't by any chance happen to be a mining engineer, do you?"
"Far be it from me," I laughed; "nothing so useful as that."
"I didn't know," he hastened to say, half apologetically. "I saw you studying maps as we came along."

Now, ordinarily I'm apt to talk a lot too much about my own affairs—I'll admit it; but this was one time when I had a sort of hunch not to. So I merely said:

"I saw you doing the same thing."
"Sure you did," he admitted cheerfully. Then he told me his name—which I got as Bullton, or Bulletin, or something like that—and said he was a mining engineer, which was the reason why he had asked me if I wasn't one.

Past that, the talk ran mostly upon his profession, and since the mysterious hunch was still nudging me, I let him have the floor, so to speak, figuring chiefly myself as a good listener.

"Yes; we do run across some rather queer propositions in our trade," he said, after he had given me some sort of an idea of what a mining engineer's job is like. "In my own experience, for example, the only sure shot I have ever had—or possibly ever will have—got away from me."

It was up to me to bite, and, of course, I did it.

"How was that?"
"The man died," he replied laconically.

That sounded rather interesting, so I gave him another pinch.

"Tell me about it; if it won't bore you."

He grinned good-naturedly—and accepted another cigar out of my pocket-case.

"You'll be the one to be bored. It was this way: A little over a year ago I was on my way to Chicago with a report that I had been making on some properties in the Cripple Creek district. In the Denver-Omaha Pullman I fell in with a nice old gentleman who had been buying himself a gold brick in the shape of a flooded mine. The mine had at one time been a 'producer,' though not by any means what you'd call a 'bonanza.' After a rather extended dividend-paying period—I don't know just how long, though, it was some years—the luck changed, as sometimes happens. In sinking and drifting the operators had uncovered another vein which was exceedingly rich. Don't let me talk your arm off."

"Go ahead," said I. "My arms are insured."

"Well, at about the time that they struck this new underlying vein, they also struck water; so much of it as to lead them to suspect that they had tapped an underground lake. The old gentleman wasn't exactly a woolly sheep—in the Wall Street sense of the term. He had owned stock in the mine for a long time, and it had been paying him dividends, right along. So naturally, after the new strike was announced, he was perfectly willing to own more. I don't know what his investment was, but he gave me to understand that it was something like half a million. In less than a month after the deal was closed the mine was drowned and went out of business."

"Still, I don't see your lost opportunity," I threw in.

"I'm coming to that. As it happens, my specialty as an engineer is the unwatering of wet mines. The old gentleman had maps and profiles with him; the records of a very careful and excellent topographical survey. I'm reasonably certain that I discovered a way in which that mine can be drained at comparatively small expense."

"I told him I thought I could do it; but I didn't give my plan away. Instead, I made him a proposition; offered to undertake the drainage job at my own costs. If I should succeed, he was to deed me a fourth interest in the property. If I didn't succeed, it was to cost him nothing—sort of a contingent fee, as a lawyer would say."

I laughed. "You made an offer like that to a stranger? and on a mine that you had never seen?"

He grinned good-naturedly and got back at me, quick.

"All business is a taking of chances. As the matter stood at that stage of the game, I had everything to gain and nothing to lose, and the only chance I was taking was in the bet on my own ability as an engineer. The old man was a queer old codger in some respects; as secretive and cautious as an old fox. For example: he had carefully clipped the name of the mine from the blue-prints and other papers, and in all our talk he never once let that name slip, and never even mentioned the name of the district in which the mine was located. But in spite of all this caution he drew up a sort of option agreement with me."

"We found a lawyer and had the agreement drawn up in legal form. The time limit was to be a year, and each of us was to put up a thousand dollars to make the agreement binding. If either of us should wish to withdraw within that time, he was at liberty to do so by forfeiting his ante of a thousand dollars to the other. If neither of us withdrew by or before the end of the year, I was to be at liberty to go ahead with my drainage project, and the agreement bound the owner to turn over a one-fourth interest in the property to me upon the completion of the job and the unwatering of the mine."

"At the moment I was under engagement to go to Pezz for a Chicago syndicate, and I expected to be out of the United States for at least six months, and maybe longer. As it turned out, the South American job was a lot bigger than I had anticipated, and for that reason the time limit of a year expired a week ago, on the day that I landed in New York. Yesterday I called upon the Omaha banker, and he gave me the cheering information that my old man was dead—had died just a few days earlier."

"Still, I don't see how you have lost out," I put in.

"Wait; here comes the funny part of it. Mr. Banker tells me solemnly that I am remembered in my old gentleman's disposition of some cash legacies made just before his death, and I'm to have the thousand dollars which he put up as a forfeit. I took the prize down and spent some of it within the next few minutes wiring the old man's home lawyer, whose name and address the banker had given me. I briefed the situation for the lawyer, said I was ready to fulfill my part of the contract, and asked him to wire me the name and location of the mine. You'd never guess in a thousand years the kind of an answer I got."

I shook my head.

"No; probably not. What was it?"

"It was a bolt from the blue, all right. Mr. Home Lawyer wired that his client had never owned a share of mining stock in his life, that there was nothing in his papers or records bearing upon the subject of my telegram, and that I must be either drunk or crazy. Of course, he didn't put it just that way in his reply, but that is what he meant."

"How do you sort it out?" I inquired.

"The lawyer's telegram? I put it up that my cautious, secretive old gentleman never told anybody at home about his mining investments; kept them in a separate pocket, so to speak. Quite possibly he didn't have any other excepting the one I've been telling you about, and the one he regarded as a dead cock in the pit. That would explain the situation nicely, don't you think?"

The story had left me a bit fogged as to the present state and standing of the thing, and I said so.

"Well, it stacks up about this way," said Brown-beard. "There is a perfectly good mine somewhere west of us that is worth anywhere from a quarter to a half million, and at the present moment it is kicking around without an owner. So far as I can see, I'm the only man on top of earth who has a claim on any part of it. And I have no more idea than the man in the moon where it is 'at.' No; I'm afraid my handsome fortune is a lost dog, so far as I'm concerned."

His mention of a lost dog hit me right in the center of the solar plexus and I laughed like a fool.

"What struck your funny-bone?" he demanded, sort of dubiously, I fancied.

"Nothing," I gurgled; "nothing worth mentioning—only I'm hunting for a lost dog, too."

But I didn't tell him any more. After we'd smoked a while longer, and Brown-beard had apologized for making me listen to his rather longish tale of woe, we took the porter's hint that he'd like to have the smoking room for his nightly shoe-shine, and turned in.

Ypsilanti, Redford, Albion, Pontiac, Port Huron and Wyandotte have been selected as the centers for the series of mass meetings to be held on the evening of Wednesday, Nov. 16, in connection with the National Methodist conference and the Detroit Area conference of the Methodist Episcopal church. These conferences will be held in Central church, Detroit, Nov. 15, 16 and 17. Methodist leaders of national prominence will address all these gatherings. Groups of churches near each center will send delegates and members to the meetings.

Bishop Charles W. Burns, of Helena, Montana, and Dr. Charles E. Guthrie, secretary of the Board of Epworth League, will be the speakers at the meeting in Ypsilanti, held in the First Methodist Episcopal church.

The group of churches meeting at the Calvary Methodist Episcopal church, Redford, will have as speakers Bishop Charles B. Mitchell, of St. Paul, Minn., and the Rev. Wm. S. Bovard, D. D., secretary of the Board of Sunday Schools of the Methodist Episcopal church.

Bishop Wilbur P. Thirkfield, who is coming to Michigan from his mission station in Mexico City, Mexico, to attend the conferences, will be the principal speaker at the mass meeting in the First church, Albion. The second speaker will be the Rev. Clarence True Wilson, corresponding secretary of the Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals—the church board that is now waging a fight for strict enforcement of the prohibition amendment.

At Central church, Pontiac, the speakers will be Bishop A. W. Leonard, of San Francisco, and Dr. Edward Laird Mills, editor of the Pacific Christian Advocate, Portland, Oregon.

Bishop Frederick D. Leece, of Indianapolis, formerly pastor of Central church, Detroit, will be one of the speakers on the program at First church, Port Huron. The other speaker will be Bishop Charles L. Mead, of Denver, Colo.

Bishop H. Lester Smith, of India, also a former pastor of Central church, Detroit, and Bishop Wm. O. Shepherd, of Portland, Oregon, will address the mass meeting in First church, Wyandotte.

It is expected that these meetings and nine others in Detroit will be attended by upwards of 50,000 Methodists of Michigan.

Tunnel That Helped to Dig Itself.

In the Simplon tunnel under the Alps, which is by far the greatest tunnel in the world, the quantity of water flowing out of the southern end, from the many veins encountered in the heart of the mountain, amounted to 15,000 gallons a minute, and furnished sufficient power to compress the air by which the drills were worked, and to refrigerate the tunnel. The necessity for refrigeration may be judged from the fact that the heat in the deeper parts of the tunnel rose as high as 150 degrees Fahrenheit when not artificially reduced.

HAMERNIK BROS.

FISH HATCHING SEASON IS HERE

Thousands of fish eggs soon will be in the state hatcheries at Northville and Charlevoix in preparation for the fishing seasons of years to come. Gathering of the eggs of certain kinds of fish will begin the first week in November.

Most of the eggs used in the government hatchery at Charlevoix for producing lake trout are obtained from the fishing boats in the Great Lakes by men whose experiences in gathering them is a matter of years. At certain seasons during the work of the fishing boats, men, hired by the hatcheries, accompany the fishermen. When the gill nets are drawn and the female of the lake trout is caught the fish is turned over to the government man. If it is possible he extracts the eggs from the fish and prepares them for shipment to the hatchery.

The period of time at which these eggs may be successfully gathered is short. The difference of a day with the individual fish will be sufficient to prevent the hatching of the eggs under artificial methods. Generally a man may work on the boats for as long as two weeks, and find fish during all that time which have reached the right stage.

When the eggs have been delivered to the hatchery in special containers they are placed in small tanks and fertilized by pouring what is called the milt of the male over them. Careful selection of the most promising eggs when they have reached the "eye" stage, that is, when the eyes of the young fish are visible through the eggs, is followed closely by the hatching. When the young fish are about an inch long they are taken to the streams and lakes where applicants have asked for a stock of the fish.

It is impossible to remove the eggs of bass, keepers of the hatchery said, and another method is used in producing them. Artificial beds are constructed by attendants in some of the nine ponds at Northville and a number of bass are placed in the ponds, male and female, in equal number. They seek prepared beds and the spawn are deposited there.

During the year thousands of bunches of eggs are received from men on the boats in the lakes, and the efficient handling of the eggs insures a large percentage of successful hatching. Streams and lakes all over Michigan are stocked from the government ponds.

Brook and rainbow trout and small-mouthed bass are principally hatched and raised at the Northville plant. The eggs of the rainbow and brook trout are obtained from fishermen over the state especially appointed by government men to gather them. Some of the fish hatched at Northville are sent into Illinois, Ohio and Indiana, but most of them are sent to Michigan lakes and streams. Distribution is made in June and July of each year.

FINE CONCERTS TO BE HEARD IN ANN ARBOR

The Detroit Symphony orchestra, which has been instrumental in giving Detroit the reputation of being one of the music centers of this country, will be heard in Ann Arbor on five occasions during the coming season. The Extra Concert series, which has been conducted by the University School of Music for the past two seasons, will this year be enriched by the inclusion of five programs by the masterful leadership of Ossip Gabrilowitsch. The programs will be arranged with a view to presenting numbers which will appeal particularly to the masses as well as to the trained musician. They will be of a rather popular nature. At each concert a soloist of recognized merit will also be heard, so that each of these concerts will be more than merely a program of orchestral music. In other words, they will take on the attractive features of the miscellaneous program usually provided at the Friday evening concert of the May festival, where it has become traditional for a great soloist to be heard with orchestral accompaniment. The dates for these concerts have been arranged to alternate for the most part with the concerts given in the Choral Union series, so that the public will find them coming at rather equal intervals.

An especially attractive soloist has been engaged for the opening concert in this series Tuesday evening, Nov. 8, in the person of Estelle Liebling, one of America's leading sopranos. Miss Liebling has attracted the enthusiastic commendation of music lovers in the great eastern centers and only recently at the renowned Worcester festival scored a triumph in the role of "Marguerite" in a fine presentation of "Faust." Her appearance in Ann Arbor on this occasion was brought about on account of the fact that she will also be heard in Detroit with the Detroit orchestra at about the same time.

The dates and soloists who will be heard in the other concerts to be given in this series are as follows:

Dec. 12—Raoul Vidas, violinist; Jan. 23—Ossip Gabrilowitsch, pianist; Feb. 20—Hans Kindler, cello; March 27—Benedictson Netzorg, pianist.

A schedule of prices for course tickets has been adopted which is exceedingly low, so that all interested in good music may have an opportunity of attending. Several hundred seats are offered for the season at $2; many others at $3, and others at $4 and $5 each. They may be secured by mail or in person at the University School of Music.

Mabel Normand

Upon her recent arrival in Chicago, Mabel Normand, the winsome "movie" star, joined the decorators' union. She is seen at work here helping decorate a new million-dollar motion picture theater.

Something to Think About

By F. A. WALKER

OUR WASTEFUL HABITS

IT IS frequently remarked by close-observing Englishmen who visit America, that our people are shamefully wasteful, and fling away money without any apparent thought of the proverbial rainy day.

Whether these alien commenters have penetrated deeply into the subject is not definitely known, but judging from their oft-repeated averments, assuming at times a form of caustic criticism, there is doubtless more truth in the matter than we suspect.

It is not without a pang of regret—a ruffling of our pride, perhaps—that we Americans, who are disposed to analyze conditions with unbiased minds, reluctantly admit that our English cousins are right.

We recognize that we have many spendthrifts, constantly setting a bad example to the young, that they are extravagant and decidedly foolish.

Money is poured out like water, as though, like Topsy, "it just grew."

There is consolation, however, in the thought that these prodigals come mostly from the ranks of the newly rich and thoughtless inheritors. They have no idea of the stern realities of life, nor the long dragging years of incessant labor and self-denial that are necessary for a working or professional man to accumulate even a moderate competency for old age.

These people congregate where the music flows, where the tables are heaped with dainties. They smile and backbite, puff themselves up like frogs and spend recklessly. They fall naturally into a state which is common to their kind.

If we could follow them through their improvident course to the end, we would find them in pitiable plight, repentant and likely as not homeless.

The necessity of conserving time and money ought now be impressed upon all of us with considerable more stress than it has been in the recent past, and particularly upon the inconsiderate young men and women.

Let high thinking, hard work and thriftiness form the important part of our spiritual bill of fare, so that in the end we may be robust of body and soul, sound of purse, unafraid of landlords and in position in old age to accept all the vagaries of life with supreme confidence and complacency. There's always a date, an act or an incident in every man's life that affects his whole future and character. Every day there are obstacles and problems to meet and joy or sorrow, happiness or worry, success or failure follow in exact accord with his ability to meet them.

Thrift generates the courage, strength, happiness, peace, power, and efficiency that make for success.

The steady plodder reaches the goal surely; but few win affluence over night. You win or lose according as you have acquired the Saving habit.

These lines may mark a day of Destiny in YOUR life if here and now you set aside a few dollars to open an account with this bank.

The One-Ton Truck

The Ford One-Ton Truck first made its appeal to the farmer and the merchant because of the merits of Ford Cars. And it made its wonderful reputation and great sales record because it lived up to every claim made for it.

The reliable Ford Motor, the special Ford steel chassis, the aluminum bronze worm-drive, all combine to produce a truck of unusual power, capacity and strength—a truck that lasts in service; a truck that solves the haulage problem at a very small operating and upkeep expense. Hence the demand for the Ford One-Ton Truck is constantly on the increase.

For the good of your business, whether it be farming, merchandising or manufacturing, you should come in and look over the Ford One-Ton Truck—NOW!

IMPORTANT

We are prepared to furnish the Ford Truck equipped either with Standard or Special Gearing. The Standard Gearing gives the truck a maximum of power. The Special Gearing increases the speed of the truck from five to seven miles an hour, converting it into a Fast Delivery Car.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH.

Do you believe in God?
Do you believe in Jesus Christ?
Do you believe in the church?

Many of the best thinkers of the last 4,000 years have believed in God. The God the Christian church still owns and loves, though the conception of Him has changed with new revelation concerning Him.

No transforming power in thought so great as that which Jesus brought to the world has ever been known. How has He impressed you?

No institution in the world has ever wrought the changes the church has wrought. How much have you had to do with it?

Buying and Selling Without Money. The difficulties in conducting trades without money are illustrated in the following, reported by the United States Trades commission at Riga:

According to current news from Soviet Russia, the Council of the People's Commissariat has established arbitrary exchange values for certain commodities, with one pood (36 pounds) of rye grain taken as the basis. It is stated that this move has been made necessary by the reintroduction of freedom in private trade.

From these arbitrary commodity exchange values, as established in June, it appears that one pound of rye grain is fixed as the equivalent of 12 poods of salt, 25 poods of petroleum, 12 packages of matches, 3 metal pails, 4 iron spades or 6 arshins (1 arshin equals 28-inches) of calico.

Mr. and Mrs. John Magle and son, Carl, Mrs. Elizabeth Magle and Miss Magle spent Saturday in Detroit.
